Social Inclusion and People Living with Schizophrenia

The aim of this study is to identify some of the challenges faced by people who are affected by schizophrenia - particularly the challenge of being 'socially included' in society. The intention is to find out how healthcare policy can improve, and present this information to policymakers. This study does not look at treatment or the effects of treatment for schizophrenia. The study is using a new definition of the term socially included and is being managed by PatientView from the UK.

PatientView is a UK research organisation that works closely with patient groups, and publicises the patient movement. Everyone who takes part in this survey will be completely anonymous, and no IP addresses will be collected by the survey managers. However, anyone who takes part and wishes to obtain the results of the survey can leave an email address at the end of the survey questionnaire. The survey will close on Monday 19th August 2013. The carer's survey is available in a number of different European languages. Logon to <http://alexwyke.wordpress.com/2013/07/15/study-title-social-inclusion-and-people-living-with-schizophrenia/> and choose the survey in the language of your choice.

A New Name for Schizophrenia – on Going Debate and Discussion

For some time now, there has been ongoing debate and discussion about the need for a new name for Schizophrenia. Recently, the Cambridge University Press published in their journal Psychological Medicine (<http://journals.cambridge.org/action/displayJournal?jid=PSM>) an article written by two Anois patients, Bill George and Aadt Klijn, calling for the adoption of the new name for schizophrenia, Psychosis Susceptibility Syndrome (PSS). Four professionals in the mental health field have contributed their comments. They sometimes agree and sometimes disagree. The collection of all five articles appears in the section of the journal Psychological Medicine entitled 'Forum'. The reply by George and Klijn to the commentaries will appear at a later date in the same journal. Anois is the Dutch association of and for people with a psychotic vulnerability.
